A BRUTAL MURDERER SUFFERS

The Death Penalty--- How the Event Passed Off... The Execution Was Not a Bungling One---Unconsciousness and Death Simultaneous-Story of His Crime--- A Depraved Criminal. Indifferent to His Fate.

Sing Sing, N. Y., Feb. 8 .- Charles McIlvaine, the murderer of Groceryman Luca, passed his last Sunday on earth without showing any signs of fear or apprehension. He was visited by his unmarried sister and Mrs. Agnes Neville, another sister, and his wife. His two sisters showed intense grief, while his young wife appeared less affected. McIlvaine was indifferent. His two sisters had to be led away after they said farewell to him. Everything was in readiness and all the witnesses were present this morning. The warden had been importuned by physicians and scientists from all parts of the state for invitations to the killing. Medical men invitations to the killing. Medical men-seemed as auxious to witness the appli-cation of the deadly current as they were when the new means of capital punishment was lirst introduced. There are others who applied to the warden who desired only to satisfy a morbid curiosite. curiosity. A TOUGH PRISONER.

"The toughest man, in Sing Sing," was the name that Mcllyaine gained for himself with his keepers in the prison. He used to be sullen, ugly and defiant, and when he entered the prison was openly rebellions. One day he broke his bedstead, and when a keeper entered the cell the murderer knocked him down with one of the iron legs to the bed. It took three men to subdue the man, and as a punishment he was kept in a dark cell for several days. He kept in a dark cell for several days. He has had several quarrels with gnards and keepers, as well as with his fellow convicts. When Wood, who was executed last July, passed Mclivaine's cell on his way to the death chair, McIlvaine cried out to him: "Good bye, — you, you'll be in hell before I am."

There was a change in McIlvaine's demeanor since his last hope vanished. He was subdued and gentle, and has spent much of his time during the last few days in reading his Bible and talk-

Mellvaine was not quite nineteer years old when he committed his terri ble crime, and he had only just been married to a girl still younger than himself. They occupied a couple of rooms in an East Side New York tenement. in an East Side New York tenement, One night in August, 1889, he took two companions to his rooms. All three typical East Side "toughs" lay down to sleep with orders to Mrs. McIlvaine that she should awake them shortly after midnight.

In the early hours of the morning they crossed the Brooklyn bridge, bent upon plundering some house before their return.

Passing through Jay street, an open the Greecer Christian Luca's Passing through Jay street, an open window in the Groeer Christian Luca's house attracted McIlvaine's attention. It was an "easy mark," he thought, and telling his companions to wait, he removed his shoes and climbed up and into the window.

While he was scarching for plunder Mr. Luca surprised him. McIlvaine

While he was searching for plunder Mr. Luca surprised him. McIlvaine whipped out a knile, and, as Luca approached, plunged it again and again into the man's body. When Luca dropped dead it was with fourteen wounds showing where the burglar's knile had struck.

McIlvaine was contined red handed. McIlvaine was captured red-handed.

Mellvaine was captured red-handed. He had two trials, the jury each time inding him guilty of murder in the first degree. Three times the week of his death has been set. His case has been carried through all the state courts and to the supreme court of the United States, and more than two years have clapsed since his awful crime appalled the people of Brooklyn and New York.

THE DEATH WARRANT. The warden read the death warrant to the condemned man at midnight. The condemned man did not say anything and listened in an indifferent manner. When the warden left McIlvaine he gave him to understand that his hours were numbered and advised him to try and get all the sleep he could. The murderer remained quiet and did not seem to be visably affected by the reading of the death warrant.

College; Dr. L. A. Saxer, Syracuse; Dr. T. S. Robertson, New York; Dr. Herbert F. Williams, Brooklyn; Dr. J. Marill, Poughkeepsic; Dr. A. F. Carroll, Brooklyn; Dr. J. Hasbrouck, Port Ewen, N. Y., and Dr. C. F. MacDonald, New York. Reporters from the leading press associations and newspapers were also present.

Rev. Father J. B. Creedon, of St. Ananatine's church, of Sing Sing par-

Augustine's church, of Sing Sing par-ish, arrived at the prison at 8 a. m. and proceeded at once to Mellvaino's cell. After prayer the condemned man par-took of a light breakfast, consisting of dry toast and a bowl of milk. He ap-peared to be in good spirits and did not show any signs of weakening. He was soon convend in water with Enhance snow any signs of weakening. He was soon engaged in prayer with Father Creedon, was calm, and if he was not resigned to his fate it was a remarkable indifference of an extraordinary criminal.

At 10 o'clock Warden Brown, accompanied by the electricians, left the warden's eifice to test the death machinery. At 11 o'clock the witnesses were all in the warden's office and were summoned to the death chamber.

SHOCKED TO DEATH. At 11:30 a. m. Charles McIlvaino was shocked to death, the first contact being made at 11:12 a. m. The duration of contact was forty-five seconds. In a few seconds after the current was cut off by Dr. MacDonald froth issued from the by Dr. MacDonald froth issued from the mouth, and almost simultaneously there was a quick argling exhalation and as quick a recovery, like a person strangling or water going the wrong way. The current was at once re-applied and continued for forty-five seconds. When the doctors examined the wrist and jugular vein for pulsations there were none, and after the examination by all the doctors present the subject was declared dead, which is to say that all consciousness was dead and all the muscular reflexes had ceused.

cular reflexes had censed.

McIlvaine came into the chamber with the priests, himself carrying before him a crucifix and murmuring prayers.

The chair used was one never before employed. On each side at the arms was a jar into which the hands were immersed, containing a solution of salt. The arms were strapped at the elbows and wrists, the contact was made on the forehead. An electrode, as in previous cases, was ready to be applied to the calf of the leg if necessary. The first contact was made through the hands and head; the second through the head and calf of the right leg. Rubber sacks of warm water hung aloft with rubber tubes to the electrodes for automatic wetting of the sponges. The doctors, with one exception, believe life and consciousness were destroyed at the same instant. As compared with the Kenmler killing, that of Mellvaine was much less distressing.

The autopsy revealed that there were slight blisters from the hot water in the electrode at the temples. The hands which had remained completely immersed were in no degree disfigured on the surface. But the wrists had each a slight blistered ring about them.

MAYOR WYMAN'S TRIAL.

Allegheny Executive Answering to the Charge of Embezzlement. PITTSBURGII, PA., Feb. 8.-Hon. J. G Wyman, mayor of Allegheny, was placed on trial in the criminal court this morning on the charge of embezzle ment and extortion. The trial is the outcome of an investigation by an auditing committee of Council into the affairs of the mayor's office. Ex-Mayor Pearson, who preceded Wyman, is also accused of embezzlement and will be tried after Mayor Wyman. The result of the trial is awaited with great interest.

Marie Hubert Frohman's Play.

No play produced in recent years has awakened more interest than "The Witch." The historic events upon which it is founded, the perfection of plot, the classic English of the dialogue and its all engressing, thrilling interest to the spectator has occasioned no end of comment. Marie Flubert Frohman, who appears in the title role, is mistress of her profession. Gifted with youth and beauty and with true dramatic remins she has found favor everywhere. and beauty and with true dramatic genius, she has found favor everywhere. She displays an intelligence that comprehends every plase of the character she portrays. Her dramatic education is of the highest order. She is supported by a company of twenty-four players. Historical scenery and costumes are used in the production. "The Witch" will be seen at the Opera House Wednesday evening.

the English Correspondents Stirring up a Feeling Against This

LONDON, Feb. S .- The Times Santingo correspondent says: Printed and written accounts now arriving here confirm the deep impression caused among all Portuguese speaking republics by the Portuguese speaking republics by the action of the United States govornment against Chile. They regard it as an outrage and declare that the illusions they have hitherto held respecting the great northern republic have vanished. The legitimate in unnee of the United States has been destroyed and in future the Central and South American republics must look for protection and mutuality of interest, both commercial and political, only among themselves. Mr. Blaine seems to have foreseen and dreaded this impending destruction of his Pan-American policy by the undreaded this impending destruction of his Pan-American policy by the un-warrantable ultimatum zent to Chile. Consequently he is throwing the entire responsibility on President Harrison.

BRITISH RANCOR.

Glad That Mr. Blaine is Not a Candidate. How It is Viewed Across the Water.

LONDON, Feb. 8 .- The Globe to-day, in commenting on Mr. Blaine's letter in which he declares that he is not a candidate for the Presidential nomination. attributes his withdrawal to the knowledge that he would not be successful and that his course in the Chilean affair has destroyed his whole foreign policy has destroyed his whole foreign policy so far as the American continent is concerned. It adds: "To present that there is any regret felt in England because of Mr. Blaine's failure would be absurd. He is the enemy of our friends and the friend of our enemies. He has never disguised his wish to annoy England and he has had recourse more than one to the seat rather our more than one to the seat rather one of the content of the seat rather one of the seat rather of the seat rather one of the seat rather one of the seat rather one of the seat rather of the seat than once to the most petty and undig nified means to effect this object."

MR. SPURGEON'S BODY

Arrives in England-A Large Crowd of His People Greet It.

LONDON, Feb. 8 .- The body of the Rev. Mr. Spurgeon arrived at New Haven from Mentone at 5 o'clock this morning. Notwithstanding the earliness of the hour there was a large assemblage on the quay awaiting the arrival of the channel steamer which brought the body from France.

All the deacons and elders of the Metropolitan Tabernacle, Mr. Spur-geon's church in London, were gathered at the Victoria station here when the train bearing the remains arrived and an enormous crowd was in the station and about the entrance.

Makes the Weak Strong

The marked benefit which people in run down or weakened state of health derive from Hood's Sarsaparilla, conclusively proves the claim that this medicino "makes the weak strong." It does not act like a stimulant, importing fieldious strength from which there must follow a reaction of greater weakness than before, but in the most natural way Hood's Sarsaparilla overcomes that tired feeling, creates an appetite, purifies the blood and, in short, gives great bodily, nerve, mental and digestive strength.
